

To the members of our Academy:

Many speak of a “new way of living” and it is clear that much has changed and many others will be changing. These moments require us to reinvent ourselves as an academy and face true commitment to our society. The name of the game is "Competitiveness and Innovation". A game for all of us to play. There are surging ideas, commitments, and responsibilities from all of us, and I invite you to guide and work your ideas to contribute to this great program of ours.
